Finding a Common Interest Lindie Clark, 2002-10-08 This important book demonstrates how businesses can operate both profitably and ethically by finding a common interest between all those involved in their operations It does so through the example of Dick Dusseldorp founder of Lend Lease one of Australia's most admired blue chip corporations Arriving in postwar Australia with only one construction contract and a handful of workers on his company's books Dusseldorp built Lend Lease into a billion dollar property development and financial services concern Widely respected for his business success Dusseldorp was equally well known for his commitment to sharing the fruits of that success with the workers shareholders and clients of Lend Lease and the communities where the company conducted its business Not only does this book tell the story of Lend Lease and its founder through them it demonstrates how business can be done inclusively and so provides a workable model for corporate governance

The Politics of Furniture Freddie Floré, Cammie McAtee, 2017-02-10 In many different parts of the world modern furniture elements have served as material expressions of power in the post war era They were often meant to express an international and in some respects apolitical modern language but when placed in a sensitive setting or a meaningful architectural context they were highly capable of negotiating or manipulating ideological messages The agency of modern furniture was often less overt than that of political slogans or statements but as the chapters in this book reveal it had the potential of becoming a persuasive and malleable ally in very diverse politically charged arenas including embassies governmental ministries showrooms exhibitions design schools libraries museums and even prisons This collection of chapters examines the consolidating as well as the disrupting force of modern furniture in the global context between 1945 and the mid 1970s The volume shows that key to understanding this phenomenon is the study of the national as well as transnational systems through which it was launched promoted and received While some chapters squarely focus on individual furniture elements as vehicles communicating political and social meaning others consider the role of furniture within potent sites that demand careful negotiation whether between governments cultures or buyer and seller In doing so the book explicitly engages different scholarly fields design history history of interior architecture architectural history cultural history diplomatic and political history postcolonial studies tourism studies material culture studies furniture history and heritage and preservation studies Taken together the narratives and case studies compiled in this volume offer a better understanding of the political agency of post war modern furniture in its original historical context At the same time they will enrich current debates on reuse relocation or reproduction of some of these elements The Alpine guide John Ball,1873
