The Dublin Metropolitan Police Jim Herlihy, 2001 Some 12 566 men enlisted in the Dublin Metropolitan Police between the force's formation in 1836 and its amalgamation with the Garda Siochana in 1925. Herlihy is interested less in providing a formal history of the force he writes than in positioning the DMP in its historical context, showing the sort of men recruited to the force, describing the conditions they worked under and supplying anecdotal information about a few members. A final chapter offers tips for descendants who want to trace their ancestors in the DMP. Herlihy is also the author of two books on the Royal Irish Constabulary.

Moving in the Shadows Liz Kelly, Yasmin Rehman, Hannana Siddiqui, 2016-04-15 In the UK the number of people who came from a minority ethnic group grew by 53 per cent between 1991 and 2001 from 3 0 million in 1991 to 4 6 million in 2001. Whilst much has been written about the impact of these demographic changes in relation to policy issues, black and minority women and children remain under-researched. Recent publications have tended to focus on South Asian women forced marriage and honour related violence. Moving in the Shadows brings together for the first time in a single volume an examination of violence against women and children within the diverse communities of the UK. Its strength lies in its gendered focus as well as its understanding of the need for an integrated approach to all forms of violence against women whilst foregrounding the experiences of minority women, the communities they are part of and the organizations which have advocated for their rights and given them voice. The chapters contained within this volume explore a set of core themes: the forms and contexts of violence minority women experience, the continuum of violence, the role of culture and faith in the control of women and girls, the types of intervention within multi-cultural and social cohesion policies, the impacts of violence on British born and migrant women and girls and the intersection of race, class, gender and sexuality, highlighting issues of similarity and difference. Taken together they provide a valuable resource for scholars, students, activists, social workers and policy makers working in the field.
