Approaching Seventy In The Bike Lane:

Approaching Seventy in the Bike Lane Joe Leroy Hemphill,Linda S. Foster,2014-10-22 Defining moments from the life of Joe Hemphill who has lived with cerebral palsy for seventy years and who rides around town in a power wheelchair using the bike lanes Joe writes about getting older and needing more help while staying independent He also looks back at where he has been and how he got to where he is today This is a collection of Joe s stories articles essays excerpts from unpublished novels and letters to the editor of his local newspaper This book includes recent thoughts and reflections about his current life and dealing with the idea of turning seventy years of age and what the future may hold Some of these articles and short stories were written as far back as forty five years ago Joe includes them along with more current articles and stories to show how he has grown as a person over the years as well as how he has grown as a writer There are journal entries from the year 2013 which deal with getting older past relationships and people who are no longer in his life He talks about a traumatic hospital stay and adjusting to losing some of his independence for the sake of being safer and more secure living on his own and staying out of institutions Many of the pieces have been published in local newspapers as articles and letters to the editor Joe realizes that possibly hundreds of thousands of people in the extended circulation areas where he has lived plus many more online have read his articles and letters over the years As you read this book you will find a man who has cerebral palsy and is reflecting on his life as he is approaching seventy He is a writer He speaks of his editor and close friend Linda He wants to tell about his life his adventures and the pitfalls he has encountered along the way in the hope of making it a little easier for other people like himself He put together this collection of his writings to leave a record of his existence This story is about a gentleman who needs help to do everything He cannot even get a glass of water without help Yet he is concerned about others He sees God around him He also hopes that this book will help people to understand and be more compassionate to one another He hopes to encourage people to make the world a better place You will find a man involved with life in spite of his limitations Joe has been a life long learner and has dedicated much of his time to bettering the lives of other disabled people And in writing this book he also hoped to further the understanding of people with cerebral palsy His parents through the strength of their love and dedication gave him the self esteem to try everything and enjoy life He hopes he has lived up to their dreams for what his life could be Reading this book might help you decide if he was successful This is the third book that Joe has published The first one was Keeping Up With Jerry and then he published It Has Been a Great Ride With very limited resources Joe has reached a vast number of people with his writing his voice and his opinions about life being disabled national politics social justice and how we should all treat each other This has put him on an equal footing with everyone else in his community this country and the rest of the world Not bad for a guy who can t walk can t do very much of anything for himself can t speak clearly and had trouble learning to read His parents would be proud if they knew what their son has done with his life Joe believes they do know Public Roads ,2006 The Enlightened Cyclist Bike

Snob NYC,2012-03-09 The author of Bike Snob helps bike commuters transcend common obstacles and handle cars pedestrians and other cyclists with grace The joys of commuting by bike attract scores of new converts every year But as fresh faced cyclists fill the roads they also encounter their share of frustrations careless drivers wide flung car doors zoned out pedestrians and aggressive fellow cyclists to name a few In this follow up to Bike Snob BikeSnobNYC takes on the trials and triumphs of bike commuting with snark humor and enthusiasm He asks the question If we become better commuters will that make us better people From the deadly sins of biking to tactics for dealing with cars pedestrians and other cyclists this primer on bike travel is a must read for cyclists new and seasoned alike

From the Ground Up Alison Sant,2022-01-11

For decades American cities have experimented with ways to remake themselves in response to climate change These efforts often driven by grassroots activism offer valuable lessons for transforming the places we live In From the Ground Up Local Efforts to Create Resilient Cities design expert Alison Sant focuses on the unique ways in which US cities are working to mitigate and adapt to climate change while creating equitable and livable communities She shows how from the ground up we are raising the bar to make cities places in which we don t just survive but where all people have the opportunity to thrive The efforts discussed in the book demonstrate how urban experimentation and community based development are informing long term solutions Sant shows how US cities are reclaiming their streets from cars restoring watersheds growing forests and adapting shorelines to improve people s lives while addressing our changing climate The best examples of this work bring together the energy of community activists the organization of advocacy groups the power of city government and the reach of federal environmental policy Sant presents 12 case studies drawn from research and over 90 interviews with people who are working in these communities to make a difference For example advocacy groups in Washington DC are expanding the urban tree canopy and offering job training in the growing sector of urban forestry In New York transit agencies are working to make streets safer for cyclists and pedestrians while shortening commutes In San Francisco community activists are creating shoreline parks while addressing historic environmental injustice From the Ground Up is a call to action When we make the places we live more climate resilient we need to acknowledge and address the history of social and racial injustice Advocates non profit organizations community based groups and government officials will find examples of how to build alliances to support and embolden this vision together Together we can build cities that will be resilient to the challenges ahead
