Student Exploration: Free-Fall Laboratory

Objective: Investigate the motion of objects in free fall and determine the acceleration due to gravity.

Background: Gravity is a force that attracts all objects with mass toward each other.

1. Gravity is a force that acts on all objects with mass. The force of gravity on an object is proportional to the object's mass.

2. Gravity is a force that acts on all objects with mass. The force of gravity on an object is proportional to the object's mass.

When an object is in free fall, the only force acting on it is gravity. The acceleration of an object in free fall is the same as the acceleration due to gravity, which is approximately  $9.8 \text{ m/s}^2$  on Earth.

Procedure:

1. Set up the experiment. You will need a meterstick, a stopwatch, and a ball. Measure the height of the ball from the ground to the top of the meterstick.

2. Release the ball from the top of the meterstick and measure the time it takes to hit the ground.

3. Repeat the experiment several times, each time releasing the ball from a different height.

Analysis: Calculate the acceleration of the ball for each trial.

4. Compare the acceleration values for each trial. Do they all agree? If not, what could be the reason for the differences?

Conclusion: The acceleration of an object in free fall is approximately  $9.8 \text{ m/s}^2$ .
