Solar Systems Objects

The image is a collage of educational materials for 5th grade science, focusing on solar system objects. It includes a diagram of the solar system with the sun, planets, and moons, a laptop displaying a lesson plan for SC.5.E.5.3, and several worksheets titled 'Solar System Objects' with sections on comets, meteors, dwarf planets, and asteroids.

Diagram: A central illustration of the sun with rays, surrounded by the planets Mercury, Venus, Earth (with the moon), Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune, all orbiting in a dashed line.

Laptop Screen: Displays a lesson plan for SC.5.E.5.3, titled 'Solar System Objects'. It includes a table of contents and a list of activities.

Worksheets: Several worksheets titled 'Solar System Objects' are visible. One worksheet has a section on 'Comets' with a definition: 'A comet is a chunk of frozen gases, rock, ice, and dust. Comets have long orbits around the sun. As they come close to the sun, they begin to break apart. The gases and dust that escape form a long tail. A comet's tail always points away from the sun.' Another worksheet has a section on 'The Flying Objects' with a definition: 'Besides planets, there are many other bodies that orbit the sun. Let's find out about some of them.' A third worksheet has a section on 'Dwarf Planets' with a definition: 'Pluto was once called a planet. But in 2006, it was reclassified as a dwarf planet. Dwarf planets are nearly round bodies whose orbits cross the orbits of other bodies. Most are found in a region of the solar system beyond Neptune's orbit called the Kuiper belt. These objects are far away and hard to study. Quaoar, whose name was discovered in 2002, was discovered in 2002.' A fourth worksheet has a section on 'Asteroids' with a definition: 'Asteroids are rock and iron objects that orbit the sun. Millions of them are found in the wide region between Mars and Jupiter. Asteroids are up to several miles across. Scientists use telescopes to study asteroids. These are objects with orbits that are different from planets, comets, and meteors. They study asteroids to see if the objects could impact Earth.
