Titanic

The Unsinkable Ship

The Titanic was the biggest ship in the world. It was 882 feet long and over 100 feet tall. The ship had 10 different decks and two large steam engines. It also was believed to be unsinkable. The ship had two layers of metal in the hull. If one layer was damaged, the other layer would keep it safely floating. The Titanic also had compartments that could be closed to keep it floating. Many people thought that it was the safest ship that had ever been built. The ship also had many amazing features like a pool, library, and many restaurants. There were many famous and wealthy people on the voyage. This was the first voyage of the Titanic.

The ship left England on April 10, 1912. The captain had received several reports of icebergs, but the ship continued at full speed. He wanted to see how fast he could cross the ocean. On April 14, 1912, the ship hit an iceberg. The iceberg ripped a hole in the side of the ship, and it started to fill with water. The damage was too much for the ship to keep floating. Both layers of the hull had holes. Five of the watertight compartments were damaged.

The ship was designed to have 32 lifeboats, but it only had 20. The crew began loading people in the few lifeboats they had. Most lifeboats left the ship half full. The ship sank in calm weather at 2:20am. Many people ended up in the cold water. Other ships came to the rescue but were a long way away. More than 1,500 people died. The captain, John Smith, went down with the ship. Over 700 people died in the cold water. This was one of the worst ship disasters in history. After this sinking, all ships were required to have enough lifeboats on board for every passenger. This ship sank in a deep part of the ocean. It was not located until 1985. Dr. Robert Ballard used an underwater robotic submarine to find the wreck.
