Particles Paul Pumpens,Peter Pushko,2022-05-22 This book represents the first complete and systematic guide to the virus-like particles VLPs and their applications as vaccines therapeutic tools nanomaterials and nanodevices. The grouping of the VLPs follows the most recent virus taxonomy and the traditional Baltimore classification of viruses which are based on the genome structure and mechanism of mRNA synthesis. Within each of the seven Baltimore classes the order taxon serves as a framework of the chapter's arrangement. The term VLP is used as a universal designation for the virus core or capsid-like structures which became an important part of the modern molecular virology. The 3D structures expression systems and nanotechnological applications are described for VLPs in the context of the original viruses and uncover their evolving potential as novel vaccines and medical interventions. Key Features Presents the first full guide to the VLP nanotechnology classified by current viral taxonomy. Outlines specific structural properties and interconnection of the virions and VLPs. Explains generation and characteristics of VLPs produced by various expression systems. Offers up to date summary of VLPs designed as vaccines and delivery tools. Unveils interconnection of VLPs with novel organic and inorganic nanomaterials.

The Domestic Politics of Negotiating International Trade Johanna von Braun,2012-03-29 The Domestic Politics of International Trade considers the issues surrounding intellectual property rights in international trade negotiations in order to examine the challenges posed to domestic policy makers by the increasingly broad nature of Free Trade Agreements FTAs. Throughout the book the author demonstrates the importance of domestic politics in understanding the nature and outcome of international negotiations particularly as they relate to international economic diplomacy. The book looks in detail at the intellectual property negotiations which formed part of the US-Peru and US-Colombia Free Trade Agreements and analyses the extent to which public health authorities and other parties affected by the increased levels of intellectual property protection were integrated into the negotiation process. The book then juxtaposes these findings with an analysis of the domestic origins of US negotiation objectives in the field of intellectual property paying particular attention to the role of the private sector in the development of these objectives. Based on a substantial amount of empirical research including approximately 100 interviews with negotiators capital based policy makers private sector representatives and civil society organisations in Lima Bogot and Washington DC this book offers a rare account of different stakeholders perceptions of the FTA negotiation process Ultimately the book succeeds in integrating the study of domestic politics with that of international negotiations This book will be of particular interest to academics as well as practitioners and students in the fields of international law economic law intellectual property political economy international relations comparative politics and government    The International Teamster ,1952    Journal of Dispute Resolution ,2008    ILCA Reporter ,1990
