Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 10 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular or pulmonary disease. The subjects were randomly assigned to either a control group or a training group. The control group consisted of 5 women who continued their sedentary lifestyle, while the training group consisted of 5 women who participated in a 10-week training program. The training program consisted of 30 minutes of aerobic exercise, 3 times per week, at a heart rate of 150 to 160 beats per minute. The subjects were monitored for HR and EE at baseline and at the end of the 10-week training program. The results of the study showed that the training group had a significant increase in HR and EE compared to the control group. The HR of the training group increased from 145 to 155 beats per minute, and the EE increased from 1,800 to 2,200 kcal per day. The control group had no significant change in HR or EE. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness and energy expenditure of sedentary, middle-aged women.

- The wall-mount installation is no longer "the standard"
  - demands more wall strength with the addition of an extra support structure, known as a "backer," and also may require the manager to be inside of the closet.
- The wall-mounts do not do away with the need for a VESA
  - standard mount specification, as the design of the screen may still vary depending on the wall-mount type specifications.
- The wall-mounts have many benefits. They may damage the product or reduce the product's life, leading to the general rule: "anything that can break or come apart is a bad thing."
- The new, fixed-mount design would be the better choice
  - as it is easier to install, better to preserve the screen's life span, and

Shouldn't someone eventually know how to do this?
