Hardin,2021-07-09 Arbitrage the trading practice that involves buying assets in one market at a cheap price and immediately selling them in another market for a profit is fundamental to the practice of financial trading and economic understandings of how financial markets function Because traders complete transactions quickly and use other people s money arbitrage is considered to be riskless Yet despite the rhetoric of riskless trading the arbitrage in mortgage backed securities led to the 2008 financial crisis In Capturing Finance Carolyn Hardin offers a new way of understanding arbitrage as a means for capturing value in financial capitalism She shows how arbitrage relies on a system of abstract domination built around risk The commonsense beliefs that taking on debt is necessary for affording everyday life and that investing is necessary to secure retirement income compel individuals to assume risk while financial institutions amass profits Hardin insists that mitigating financial capitalism s worst consequences such as perpetuating class and racial inequities requires challenging the narratives that naturalize risk as a necessary element of financial capitalism as well as social life writ large The Law

Zagros Madjd-Sadjadi,2013-11-01 Too often students in economics emerge with a clear grasp of theory but precious little ability to apply that theory especially in the area of microeconomics They are left with a model that they believe is relevant solely to market mechanisms when it is in fact suited for inquiry into all avenues of rational choice At the same time there is a uniform belief that criminals are plagued by psychological physiological or sociological deficiencies that can be remedied only through incarceration or institutionalization Neither formulation is satisfactory as an exemplar to the general population about how they should be thinking about crime Workers employers and managers alike have a stake in effective public policy designed to reduce criminality According to the Institute for People with Criminal Records approximately 3% of the US population will be in jail or prison for at least one day during any given year and nearly 30% of the population has a criminal record Yet having a criminal record often serves as a bar to employment and leads individuals who have paid their debts to society on a pathway to recidivism Thus everyone from managers in companies considering whether to bar felons from employment to individual voters considering felony disenfranchisement laws needs to understand how rational criminals act and think This book will attempt to guide readers to such an understanding By understanding how incentive mechanisms affect criminal behavior business managers may use this information either to reduce criminal activity in their own enterprises or to understand how unethical business decisions affect the wider society As we always do in such circumstances we must make sacrifices to balance the competing interests Shadow Libraries Joe Karaganis,2018-05-04

How students get the materials they need as opportunities for higher education expand but funding shrinks From the top down Shadow Libraries explores the institutions that shape the provision of educational materials from the formal sector of universities and publishers to the broadly informal ones organized by faculty copy shops student unions and students themselves It looks at the history of policy battles over access to education in the post World War II era and at the narrower versions that have played out in relation to research and textbooks from library policies to book subsidies to more recently the several open publication models that have emerged in the higher education sector From the bottom up Shadow Libraries explores how simply students get the materials they need It maps the ubiquitous practice of photocopying and what are in many cases the more marginal ones of buying books visiting libraries and downloading from unauthorized sources It looks at the informal networks that emerge in many contexts to share materials from face to face student networks to Facebook groups and at the processes that lead to the consolidation of some of those efforts into more organized archives that circulate offline and sometimes online the shadow libraries of the title If Alexandra Elbakyan s Sci Hub is the largest of these efforts to date the more characteristic part of her story is the prologue the personal struggle to participate in global scientific and educational communities and the recourse to a wide array of ad hoc strategies and networks when formal authorized means are lacking If Elbakyan s story has struck a chord it is in part because it brings this contradiction in the academic project into sharp relief universalist in principle and unequal in practice Shadow Libraries is a study of that tension in the digital era
