

DAD 220 Project Two: Analyzing Databases

Mariya Robinson

August 13, 2023

Scenario

The product manager of Quantigration has asked your data analytics team for a report summarizing your analysis of the return merchandise authorizations (RMAs) that have been received. These are the same data sets that you've already been working with. Your report should focus on summarizing the analysis and presenting your findings to the product manager.

Directions

RMA Report

In your report, respond to the manager's requests: to summarize the data you've been working with and to identify key information that will help the company streamline operations. Remember, not everyone who reviews this report will have a technical background.

1. Begin by writing SQL commands to capture usable data (which you've preloaded into Codio) for your analysis.
Used QuantigrationRMA.
2. Specifically, the product manager wants you to analyze the following:
 - o Analyze the number of returns by state and describe your findings in your report.
 - o Analyze the percentage of returns by product type and describe your findings in your report.
3. In your report, clearly summarize your analysis of the data for stakeholders. Include screenshots of the results of each query. When summarizing results, you may want to consider the following questions:
 - o How does the data provide the product manager with usable information?
 - o What are the potential flaws in the data that has been presented?
 - o Are there any limitations on your conclusions, or any other ways of looking at it that you haven't considered? Clearly communicate your findings to stakeholders.
