Moll, 2014-08-15 With USSOCOM assuming the role as supported command in the Global War on Terror Army Special Forces will no doubt to play a primary role in that effort The unspoken assumption seems to be that America's new unconventional foe will best be combated with America's own unconventional warriors It is unclear however if a force raised to conduct behind the lines operations against a large conventional enemy will remain the force of choice against al Qaida and similar threats This thesis central research question is Is US Army Special Forces adequately prepared and trained to fight the Global War on Terror This thesis examines the contemporary operating environment the threat represented by al Qaida and whether it represents a traditional terrorist threat or a new transnational insurgency A review of both types of organization over the last century indicates that al Qaida is at this stage merely a terrorist organization and not an insurgency However al Qaida sprang from a region that is ripe for insurgency should the terrorists choose to become more than what they currently are Combating the threat posed by al Qaida then seems to require both an aggressive counter terrorist campaign and a simultaneous pre-emptive counter insurgency A review of current training indicates that Special Forces appears well prepared for both efforts with one glaring deficiency foreign language proficiency Subject Guide to Books in Print, 2001
