

Usage examples: Tradeshow graphics

When creating tradeshow graphics, consider the edge of the graphic an edge from which the red tag logo could hang.

(More examples on the next page.)

Standing banner

The red tag logo is placed at the top for better visibility at standing height.

Hanging banner

The first example is simply the red tag logo scaled to the size of a hanging banner. In this case, it was hung from the ceiling - the ceiling acts as the "edge" from which it hangs. As this is a very bold look, only one should be used in any particular space.

In the second example the red tag logo is placed at the bottom for better visibility when looking up at the banner from the ground.
