Question 1

11 points

Many do you think the profit margin for Anagene's cartridges has been fluctuating? Is likely attributable to the actual number of cartridges sold at this cartridge change, or because of the existing system they are using to calculate the cost?

The actual number of cartridges sold at this cartridge change was constant. The company looked at estimated number of cartridges produced and reduced the quantity of the cartridges sold. This led to the estimated cartridge number change. Finally, company wanted to identify the cartridge quantity that is expected production from this.
