National Bar Examination Digest, 1976 New Directions in Question Answering Mark T. Maybury, 2004 Major trends in the development of an important new method of information access that combines elements of natural language processing, information retrieval, and human computer interaction. Question answering systems which provide natural language responses to natural language queries are the subject of rapidly advancing research encompassing both academic study and commercial applications, the most well known of which is the search engine Ask Jeeves. Question answering draws on different fields and technologies including natural language processing, information retrieval, explanation generation, and human computer interaction. Question answering creates an important new method of information access and can be seen as the natural step beyond such standard Web search methods as keyword query and document retrieval. This collection charts significant new directions in the field including temporal, spatial, definitional, biographical, multimedia, and multilingual question answering. After an introduction that defines essential terminology and provides a roadmap to future trends, the book covers key areas of research and development. These include current methods, architecture requirements, and the history of question answering on the Web; the development of systems to address new types of questions; interactivity, which is often required for clarification of questions or answers; reuse of answers; advanced methods and knowledge representation and reasoning used to support question answering. Each section contains an introduction that summarizes the chapters included and places them in context, relating them to the other chapters in the book as well as to the existing literature in the field and assessing the problems and challenges that remain.

In the Mishnah ca 200 C.E. the Tosefta ca 300 C.E. and the commentaries that joined them the Yerushalmi the Talmud of the Land of Israel ca 400 and the Bavli and the Talmud of Babylonia ca 600 the law of Judaism is outlined topic by topic. The exposition of these topics however is shaped in part by a generic analytical program. The hermeneutics of the Halakhah of the formative canon guides the Rabbinic sages to say the same thing about many things. Specifically issues of a patterned analytical character guide the presentation so that most topics in some measure and some topics in paramount measure serve to illustrate ubiquitous generic problems of thought or intellectual templates. Two generative problems found in four intellectual templates predominate: 1 intentionality and concomitantly 2 teleology, 3 resolution of doubts and concomitantly 4 the classification of mixtures. The second and fourth templates form subsets of the first and the third. In this project author Jacob Neusner identifies the occurrences of the four intellectual templates and shows in complete detail where and how the same problems recur time and again.
