

Adjust the graph to illustrate your answer by showing the positions of the supply and demand curves in 2005.

Tool tip: Click and drag one or both of the curves. Curves will snap into position, so if you try to move the curve and it snaps back to its original position, just try again and drag it a little farther.

The Road Ahead for America's Colleges and Universities Robert B. Archibald, David H. Feldman, 2017-07-03 The US higher education system is on the verge of a revolution so some observers claim Archibald and Feldman leading analysts provide an incisive overview of the challenges facing and possibilities for America's universities and colleges in their training future generations And they demonstrate that our higher education system is resilient and adaptable enough to weather the internal external and technological threats without changing campuses beyond recognition The Road Ahead for America's Colleges and Universities examines the threats posed to the current health of higher education by rising tuition and falling government support as well as from new digital technologies rippling through the entire economy Some predict disaster pointing to high costs exploding debt and a digital tsunami that supposedly will combine to disrupt and sweep away many of the nation's higher education institutions or change them beyond recognition Archibald and Feldman provide a more nuanced view They argue that the bundle of services that four year colleges and universities provide will retain its value for the traditional age range of college students Less certain Archibald and Feldman argue is whether the system will continue to be a force for social and economic opportunity The threats are most dire at schools that disproportionately serve America's most underprivileged students At the same time growing income inequality reduces the ability of many students and their families to pay for higher education Archibald and Feldman suggest a range of policy options at the state and federal level that will help America's higher education system continue to fulfill its promise
