PHOTOGRAPHIC REGIONAL ATLAS OF BONE DISEASE Robert W. Mann, David R. Hunt, 2013-02-01 The Photographic Regional Atlas of Bone Disease is intended to serve the needs of a diverse audience including paleopathologists physical anthropologists and other anthropologists police crime scene technicians medical examiners radiologists anatomists and other medical specialists regardless of training or experience Although originally written as a manual for physical anthropologists it has become a reference for anyone examining skeletal remains or dealing with bone disease especially in dry bone specimens Over the years it has gained in popularity as one of the few required manuals in most skeletal laboratories throughout the U S and in fact many countries The purpose of the book is to bridge the gap between clinical medicine radiology and physical anthropology by providing researchers with a single source and photographic atlas of what they might encounter in one bone or an entire skeletal collection regardless of antiquity or origin Unlike most texts written by clinicians for clinicians or those that focus on one specialty the Regional Atlas was compiled by biological anthropologists using a dry bones approach and simple yet precise terminology based on examination of nearly 10 000 skeletons The authors expertise and diversity in anatomy radiology pathology and human variation provide them with a unique perspective for distinguishing normal variation from pathological conditions The book was written as a basic stand alone reference for bone disease and normal variation It contains black and white photographs and an extensive use of color plates depicting a variety of disease conditions and stages of progression that one might expect to encounter in one or many skeletons The purpose of this text is to provide readers with sufficient information on bone disease and human variation for them to recognize describe and interpret them Once they have identified a disease normal variant or other condition they can turn to the bibliography for references and additional information The Regional Atlas is intended to provide readers with enough information to do their own skeletal analysis It is this dry bones approach combined with the vast experiences of the authors vivid photos and simple terminology that sets the Regional Atlas apart from all others

Neural Masses and Fields: Modelling the Dynamics of Brain Activity Karl Friston, 2015-05-25 Biophysical modelling of brain activity has a long and illustrious history and has recently profited from technological advances that furnish neuroimaging data at an unprecedented spatiotemporal resolution Neuronal modelling is a very active area of research with applications ranging from the characterization of neurobiological and cognitive processes to constructing artificial brains in silico and building brain machine interface and neuroprosthetic devices Biophysical modelling has always benefited from interdisciplinary interactions between different and seemingly distant fields ranging from mathematics and engineering to linguistics and psychology This Research Topic aims to promote such interactions by promoting papers that contribute to a deeper understanding of neural activity as measured by fMRI or electrophysiology In general mean field models of neural activity can be divided into two classes neural mass and neural field models The main difference between these classes is that field models prescribe how a quantity characterizing neural activity such as average depolarization of a neural population evolves over both space and time as opposed to mass models which characterize activity over time only by assuming that all neurons in a population are located at approximately the same point This Research Topic focuses on both classes of models and considers several aspects and their relative merits that span from synapses to the whole brain comparisons of their predictions with EEG and MEG spectra of spontaneous brain activity evoked responses seizures and fitting data to infer brain states and map physiological parameters
