Augmenting Our Influence Alliance Revitalization And Partner Development:

Augmenting Our Influence John R. Deni, 2014 As the United States and its allies prepare to withdraw most of their military forces from Afghanistan and following the end of the war in Iraq fundamental questions have arisen over the future of American Landpower Among them are the role of allies and partners in terms of contributing to the safeguarding of shared global interests the implications of the Pacific rebalancing for American alliances worldwide and the role of Landpower in identifying developing and maintaining critical alliances partnerships and other relationships To examine these and other questions as well as to formulate potential solutions to the challenges facing U S national security in the coming decade the U S Army War College gathered a panel of experts on alliances and partnerships for the 24th Annual Strategy Conference in Carlisle PA Conducted on April 9 11 2013 the conference explored American Landpower implications associated with an evolving national security strategy Chaired by the Strategic Studies Institute s Dr John R Deni the panel devoted to alliances and partnerships featured expert presentations based on the papers in this edited volume by Dr Sean Kay Dr Carol Atkinson and Dr William Tow Their analyses provided the U S Army and the U S Department of Defense with invaluable strategic assessments and insights Students and scholars with interest in US national security and building community allies and coalitions with other countries to thwart terrorist threats activities and implement landpower strategies to grow democracies and peace around the world would be interested in this book as a supplemental reading text for military science and international diplomacy classes Related products A Hard Look at Hard Power Assessing the Defense Capabilities of Key U S Allies and Security Partners is available here <https://bookstore.gpo.gov/products/sku/008/000/01158/3> Enabling Others to Win in a Complex World Maximizing Security Force Assistance Potential in the Regionally Aligned Brigade Combat Team is available here <https://bookstore.gpo.gov/products/sku/008/000/01178/8> Navies and Soft Power Historical Case Studies of Naval Power and the Nonuse of Military Force is available here <https://bookstore.gpo.gov/products/sku/008/046/00290/8> Multinational Operations Alliances and International Military Cooperation Past and Future can be found here <https://bookstore.gpo.gov/products/sku/008/029/00472/1> An Arab NATO in the Making Middle Eastern Military Cooperation Since 2011 is available here <https://bookstore.gpo.gov/products/sku/008/000/01209/1> Augmenting Our Influence Strategic Studies Institute, U. S. Army U.S. Army War College Press, 2014-12-30 The United States prefers to fight in coalitions and has made this clear in both word and deed Most of the key American national security or defense strategies such as the Quadrennial Defense Review report or the National Security Strategy of the last decade or more note this fact In practice the United States worked diligently and tirelessly to construct and maintain coalitions of the willing in both Iraq and Afghanistan American political and military leaders did this and will continue to do this for future conflicts because coalition allies provide both political legitimacy at home and abroad for broad national security policies and specific military operations and because coalition partners help to shoulder security burdens The Palgrave Handbook of Contemporary
