Anjum Altaf,Kaoru Nabeshima,2004-07-01 In the coming decades East Asian economies must face the challenges of an increasingly globalized marketplace This book explores the changing parameters of competition in East Asia and argues that success ultimately will depend on the ability of the region s firms to harness the potential of global production networks and to build their own innovative capability Presenting the latest findings on global production networks and the evolution of technological capabilities it provides researchers students and policymakers with in depth information and analysis on key issues related to growth and development in East Asia East Asian firms must not only achieve greater efficiency but also become more innovative offering differentiated products in order to vie with other first tier suppliers of multinational corporations These firms will also need to develop a technological edge if they are to compete with corporations from the leading OECD countries and form their own global production networks Global Production Networking and Technological Change in East Asia argues that a development strategy linked to technological advance will be necessary to foster the growth of innovative national firms that can remain competitive in global markets Business Korea ,1996

The Impact of Globalisation on Employment Relations:A Comparison of the Automobile and Banking Industries Roger Blanpain,Russell D. Lansbury,Yöng-böm Pak,2002-07-31 Although no one disputes that employment relations worldwide have been greatly affected by globalisation no clear consensus has emerged on the nature and significance of this impact The seven contributions to this symposium pursue a comparative approach suggesting that direct analysis of employment relations in distinct industries in two comparably sized economies since the advent of globalisation leads to a more precise understanding of the interaction of globalisation and employment relations and sets a pattern for other studies to follow The economies studied in the symposium are Australia and Korea and the industries are automobile and auto parts manufacturing and retail banking In both countries labour unions play a key role in the way in which employers and governments react to political and economic pressures Among the particular topics discussed by the contributors are the following effects of the 1997 financial crisis in Korea the extent to which the automobile industry in one country Korea depends on parts and raw material from another country Australia cross border cooperation between unions the growing trend toward enterprise bargaining conciliation and arbitration of industrial disputes and the role of government sponsored industrial relations commissions The contributing authors are all industrial relations authorities in Australia or Korea The in depth analysis they offer in these very specific areas will be of value to labour lawyers and industrial relations scholars everywhere for the light it sheds on this crucial aspect of contemporary social and economic development

Reforming Korea's Industrial Conglomerates Edward Montgomery Graham,2003 In 1998 the Korean economy experienced the deepest recession since the Korean War Within a year a number of smaller industrial conglomerates had failed In this study Graham examines the causes of this situation tracing them back to the aggressive industrial policy begun by president Park Chung hee during the late 1960s He also analyzes reforms undertaken since 1997 concluding that they have not been entirely successful

Korea Company Handbook ,2002 Cars of the Soviet Union Andy Thompson,2008 The story of the Soviet Union s cars has to be seen in the context of a planned society in which everything was planned well in advance and consumer items were not a priority until well after the Second World War This extraordinarily detailed study charts the history of Soviet cars from the birth of the Soviet Union in 1917 until its demise in 1990 with a conclusion about the post Soviet era It is the story of an insular state run car industry in which the carefully thought out ideas of ministerial planners rather than fickle customers in a free market determined what cars were made in a country where the open road was often a 300 mile track across a windswept steppe
