The map of Gauteng: evolution of a city-region in concept and plan Allan Mabin, 2013-07-26 The mission of the Gauteng City Region Observatory GCRO is to help illuminate trends and dynamics shaping the region of towns and cities in and around Gauteng and also enhance understanding of the idea of the Gauteng City Region GCR as a project a different way of thinking about and governing this space While much of the data collection and analysis work of the GCRO is focused on the present we also consider the city region's past and its possible futures A 2030 National Development Plan crafted by the National Planning Commission has recently been adopted In addition the Gauteng Provincial Government working with municipal partners and business civil society and labour stakeholders is drafting a G2055 long term development plan As our society looks forward to what sort of country and region we need to become it is also important to look backward Understanding the past gives us insights into how we have come to be where we are now and so in turn what paths we should tread into the future This Occasional Paper is one of two that GCRO has commissioned specifically to deepen our understanding of the past of the GCR Both focus on aspects of the region's spatial past and ought to be read together This paper by Alan Mabin explores how the idea of a city region found expression in various statutory planning frameworks over the course of the last century and how embryonic cityregion concepts influenced spatial decisions and developments The companion paper by Brian Mubiwa and Harold Annegarn considers the different but related issue of the actual historical spatial evolution of the GCR It examines key spatial changes that have shaped the region over a century and provides a remarkable picture based on satellite imagery of regional spatial growth in the last two decades

Quality Modeling Brian Henderson-Sellers, 1991-03-14 This volume represents the first decision support book aimed at water quality management for lakes and reservoirs The book offers both a retrospective view in terms of summarizing past work and a prospective view in terms of forecasting the greater use of such models as part of much needed environmental decision support systems The concepts of lake and reservoir simulation modeling as well as the concepts of decision support systems formalized within the information systems discipline are supported by a wealth of case studies Case studies in the early chapters concentrate more on the physical dynamic and thermodynamic parameters while later chapters stress the need for a more detailed representation of the biology and chemistry Other case studies emphasize the management use of the model New tools and concepts are also presented to facilitate the transfer of case studies presented in this volume from the arena of research to that of operational and planning management Water quality managers research scientists and water engineers will find this volume an exciting source of new ideas and concepts      Environment Abstracts ,1984
