Based on extensive fieldwork and research into John Ruskin's still little interpreted archival material notebooks and drawings in the Ruskin Library Lancaster University UK and elsewhere Stephen Kite offers an unprecedented account of the evolution of Ruskin's architectural thinking and observation in the context of Italy where his watching of building achieved its greatest intensity Venice naturally figures large in a work that also examines other key sites including Verona Lucca Pisa Florence Milan and Monza here the fabrics are vividly read in their contexts against the rich evidence of Ruskin's diaries his pocket book sketches architectural worksheets drawings and daguerrotypes the early form of photography and the drafts and published editions of the texts Kite presents the complex story of Ruskin's visual thinking in architecture as a narrative of deepening interpretation and representation focusing on the humbler monuments of Italy He shows how Ruskin's early picturesque naturalism was transformed by the realisation that to understand the built realities confronting him in Italy demanded a closer engagement with the substance of the stones themselves reflecting Ruskin's sense of his task as a near archaeological gleaning and gathering of remains hidden in many a grass grown court and silent pathway and lightless canal

The British Architect, 1899      Hidden Patrons Amy Boyington, 2023-11-02 An enduring myth of Georgian architecture is that it was purely the pursuit of male architects and their wealthy male patrons History states that it was men who owned grand estates and houses who commissioned famous architects and who embarked upon elaborate architectural schemes Hidden Patrons dismantles this myth revealing instead that women were at the heart of the architectural patronage of the day exerting far more influence and agency than has previously been recognised Architectural drawing and design discourse and patronage were interests shared by many women in the eighteenth century Far from being the preserve of elite men architecture was a passion shared by both sexes intellectually and practically as long as they possessed sufficient wealth and autonomy In an accessible readable account Hidden Patrons uncovers the role of women as important patrons and designers of architecture and interiors in eighteenth century Britain and Ireland Exploring country houses Georgian townhouses villas estates and gardens it analyses female patronage from across the architectural spectrum and examines the work of a range of pioneering women from grand duchesses to businesswomen to lowly courtesans Re-examining well known Georgian masterpieces alongside lesser known architectural gems Hidden Patrons unearths unseen archival material to provide a fascinating new view of the role of women in the architecture of the Georgian era      Liverpool and Manchester Photographic Journal William Crookes, T.A.
