29 Argyle Drive:

29 Argyle Drive David Turri, 2014-10-18 29 Argyle Drive was the address of an old house that used to stand in the hills above Sumner a seaside suburb of Christchurch New Zealand For nearly fifteen years the house remained on the market but unsold until early in 2010 it is bought by a retired teacher as new premises for the English language school he ran But that house would have been better left in the neglected state into which it had fallen the unseen things that infested it would have been better left undisturbed This is the story of the disturbance at 29 Argyle Drive of the events that happened the people involved and of the victims Especially it chronicles the psychic investigation of the house in April by Barbara Keel one of New Zealand's foremost mediums The investigation reveals a secret that has been buried for forty years something tragic and horrifying that brings shame and grief to many residents of The Garden City The investigation also leads to a shocking incident in its quiet and peaceful streets In the wake of that incident the world's media descends on Christchurch 29 Argyle Drive is christened The Hell House and the place where evidence of the tragedy was found The Hell Hole While people obsessive about such things kept the topic alive on the internet with theories of a conspiracy by Christchurch police to cover up the true nature of what had happened and with esoteric discussions about the nature of spiritual as opposed to demonic possession the general public eventually grows tired of it all and the reporters and the camera crews go back to where they came from But what had been in the house whatever its nature was still there and it shows itself again in December 2010 with another brutal incident as horrific as the one in April The media flocks back This time the headlines read Jack's House and Jack Lives Here But the cameras return to a far less friendly city In September a severe earthquake had robbed the citizens of Christchurch of their peace of mind Although the quake caused almost no loss of life the aftershocks continue traumatizing the population leaving it resentful at becoming again the center of a media frenzy The people are sustained through those months of daily and violent aftershocks by the old adage that lightning never strikes twice in the same space That would be unthinkable But the unthinkable happens The story has been a tale of the occult but it ends as a requiem for the people of Christchurch and the real terror that befell the city on February 22 2011     Cruising World , 1992-01

Cruising World , 1991-08     Cruising World , 1991-07     Glasgow Trams Martin Jenkins, Geoff Price, 2022-09-15 This book has been commissioned to mark the 60th anniversary of the closure of Glasgow's remarkable tram system when over 250 000 people lined the city streets on 4 September 1962 to watch a final procession of some 20 trams representing different periods in the history of the undertaking Using a wealth of previously unpublished photographs the book shows as many areas and aspects of the city as possible The trams are once again back where they belong right in the heart of the city and its suburbs with people period buses cars and lorries shops churches theatres cinemas parks shipyards factories and even steam and electric locos running on the tram tracks Furthermore the coverage goes way beyond the city boundary to encompass Airdrie Coatbridge Cambuslang Rutherglen Barrhead Paisley Renfrew Clydebank and Milngavie Over the years many locations have changed beyond recognition while others remain instantly recognisable There are scores of photographs of the long lasting Standards some even in Glasgow's legendary colored route bands trams acquired from Paisley including those cut down to single deckers Kilmarnock bogies modern Coronations and Cunarders ex Liverpool cars one offs and also works cars For those who still remember the trams we hope you enjoy looking back as much as we have and for those who have no memory of wires and rails in the street we hope this will recapture a lost way of life when services were frequent and fares relatively inexpensive     Glasgow post-office directory [afterw.] Post office Glasgow directory ,1869     Annual
