Tularemia is a severe anthropozoonosis caused by Francisella tularensis. The genus Francisella contains five species: F. tularensis, F. philomiragia, F. hispaniensis, F. noatunensis, and F. novicida. First described in 1911 in Tulare County, California, it has since been reported worldwide, capable of infecting more than 250 vertebrates and invertebrate species. Although it causes disease in various animal species, no animal has been identified as a main reservoir of this pathogen. Humans acquire infection by several routes, including direct contact with infected animals, ingestion of water or food contaminated by infected animals, exposure to infected arthropod vectors, or by inhalation of infective aerosols resulting in pneumonic, oropharyngeal, glandular, ulceroglandular, or oculoglandular tularemia. The clinical presentation of human tularemia depends on route of the infection, the causative Francisella strain, and the immune response of the host. A live attenuated vaccine, LVS, has been available for more than 50 years, however, unlikely to become licensed in the future due to a lack of understanding of the genetic basis for its attenuation. Due to the ease of its dissemination, its multiple routes of infection, its low dose of infection, severe morbidity, and high rate of mortality, F. tularensis subsp. tularensis has been classified as a category A bioterrorism agent by the CDC. Many virulence factors of F. tularensis have been discovered and investigated, but more in-depth host-pathogen interaction analyses are needed to define mechanisms of pathogenicity and virulence of this unique pathogen      Matthew: An Introduction and Study Guide Elaine M. Wainwright,2017-01-12 Recent decades have seen significant shifts in biblical scholarship opening up a range of ways of engaging the biblical narrative both methodologically the tools and techniques for engaging the text and hermeneutically the perspectives that inform an interpreter s approach to the text and to the interpretative task It is these shifts that give shape to this introduction and study guide so that students encounter not only the text of Matthew itself but also its rich lode of recent interpretation Among aspects of 1st century life brought to the fore by current social scientific methodology are kinship the honor and shame culture and masculinity Gender is another interpretative lens that has characterized the study of the Gospel of Matthew in recent decades and the Guide provides pathways through this rich literature The guide to Matthew concludes with the most recent turn of the hermeneutical lens namely an ecological perspective on what is perhaps the best known text in Matthew the Beatitudes This final chapter is an example of how we can enter an old and familiar text like the Gospel of Matthew from yet another new critical direction      Reading for the Young John Frederick Sargent,1890
