through a certain number of the cars, I decided that the number when stopped would be too many for the people to get out of, across the road. The crowd had swelled, however, immensely, and would require an even longer time. The train had stopped and I stopped the approaching engine (every one could be easily seen from inside the car) and then stopped the engine, so that the people could get out and get across the road. I then thought, "I suppose, people have that sort of engine and that wouldn't be enough." However, I stopped the engine and then the train. However, when I stopped the engine the people did not get out. There is no such thing as a
