- Deploy disk images across multiple subnets
- Deploy redundant NetBoot images on multiple servers for high-availability and performance

The NetBoot service in Mac OS X Server makes managing a group of computers as easy as managing a single Mac. By enabling client systems to boot from a single server-based disk image, instead of from their internal hard drive, you can create a standard configuration and use it on all of the client systems in a department or organization—or host multiple images customized for different workgroups. You can switch between configurations and run all of your servers from one image. Updating the disk image on the NetBoot server updates all of these systems automatically the next time they are restarted.

Every time you restart a NetBoot-enabled computer, it is automatically restored to its original state. The system reads the startup disk image from the server, and all software and system settings return to the configuration in the NetBoot image. This enables you to display these systems on resource-hungry monitors with unprecedented efficiency. It also means you can quickly recover from user alteration, tampering, and network-based viruses, providing added protection for your network. At the same time, NetBoot improves usability by giving users a consistent computing experience across Mac systems anywhere on the network.

Enterprise Mac Administrator's Guide addresses the growing size and spread of Mac OS X deployments in corporations and institutions worldwide.
