1. Control tests

Control tests are written under controlled conditions within a specified period of time. Questions should assess performance at different cognitive levels (as shown below and refer to Appendix B4) with an emphasis on process skills, critical thinking, scientific reasoning, and strategies to investigate and solve problems in a variety of scientific, technological, environmental, and everyday contexts.

Total of paper	100	100	100

A control test assesses the work done in that specific term. It is the teacher's responsibility to catch up on learning losses of the previous year as well as on the term's work to fully understand the topics demarcated in a specific test.

The knowledge areas and topics that will be assessed in each control test are given in the tables below, with approximate marks. Marks per control test are 100 for a duration of two hours. The ratio of "marks" to "minutes" is the same as for an examination, which is 50 marks per 60 minutes or one hour.
