Discipline Problems Tadashi Dozono, 2024-05-07 Angel a Black tenth grader at a New York City public school self identifies as a nerd and likes to learn But she's troubled that her history classes leave out events like the genocide and dispossession of Indigenous people in the Americas presenting a sugar coated image of the United States that is at odds with her everyday experience The history I learned in school is simpler she says The world I live in is a lot more complex Angel like every student interviewed in Discipline Problems has been identified by teachers as a troublemaker a student whose behavior disrupts classroom norms and interferes with instruction But her critiques of the curriculum she's taught speak to her curiosity and insight crucial foundations for understanding history Like many students who have been marginalized by systemic racism in American schools she exposes the shortcomings of her classrooms academic environments by challenging both the content and the methods of her education All too often these challenges are framed as troublemaking and the students are disciplined for acting out instead of being rewarded for their intellectual engagement Tadashi Dozono a professor of education and former high school social studies teacher takes seriously the often overlooked critiques that students of color who get labeled as troublemakers direct toward their high school history curriculum He reinterprets troublemaking usually cast as a behavioral deficit as an intellectual asset and form of reasoning that challenges the disciplining reason of classrooms where whiteness is valued over the histories and knowledge of people of color Dozono shows how what are traditionally framed as discipline problems can be seen through a different lens as responses to educational practices that marginalize non white students Discipline Problems reveals how students of color seek out alternate avenues for understanding their world and imagines a pedagogy that champions the curiosity intellect and knowledge of marginalized learners Handbook on Teaching Social Issues Ronald W. Evans,2021-07-15 This Handbook guides teachers in addressing social issues with a focus on social justice It emphasizes issues centered social studies encouraging in depth investigation of persistent social issues to enhance social understanding and active participation Contributors include leading experts in social studies education

Climate Change Education Chang Chew Hung,2022-12-30 Climate change is complex and there is a need to educate our future generations so that they are able to deal with the plethora of information and views that they come into contact with in their lives This book inquires into what it means to teach and learn about climate change Now in its second edition Chang further explores what education for climate change entails discussing the concept of climate change education CCE itself how it is taught in schools and how public education is being carried out Featuring updated literature in a quickly advancing field the book defines CCE for the global citizen and looks at pedagogies supporting CCE It also identifies teachers as key stakeholders in climate change discourse how to improve teacher readiness on the topic and how teacher professional development can support successful implementation of CCE This book will be invaluable to climate change educators and can act as a reference resource for teachers education policymakers and public education agencies
