

2nd Grade SOL Review

II. Scientific Investigations

A. Every scientific study is carried out using a series of steps called an experimental design. The steps determine the steps of the scientific method.

1. State the problem.
2. Find out what is known.
3. Form a hypothesis.
4. Plan the experiment.
5. Record & analyze data.
6. State a conclusion.
7. Repeat the work.

B. A scientist wants to determine if the amount of water given to a plant affects the growth of that plant. The experiment is set up with two identical groups.

Write the steps of the experiment in order. Write 1 in the blank next to the step that comes first, 2 in the blank next to the step that comes next, and so on.

1. 5 Each morning at the same time give each plant in Group A amount of water. The amount should be the same for each plant each day.
2. 3 Place each of the plants in its own cup, all cups should be exactly the same size and in the same location.
3. 6 Measure each plant every week for two weeks. Record the data (the plant's weight).
4. 1 Write a summary of the whole experiment.
5. 4 Measure each plant before putting it in its cup.
6. 2 Place the cups 2 inches of soil each day, and make sure there is no water in Group A.
