Specialist Periodical Reports provide systematic and detailed review coverage of progress in the major areas of chemical research. Written by experts in their specialist fields, the series creates a unique service for the active research chemist, supplying regular critical in depth accounts of progress in particular areas of chemistry. For over 80 years the Royal Society of Chemistry and its predecessor the Chemical Society have been publishing reports charting developments in chemistry which originally took the form of Annual Reports. However, by 1967 the whole spectrum of chemistry could no longer be contained within one volume and the series Specialist Periodical Reports was born. The Annual Reports themselves still existed but were divided into two and subsequently three volumes covering Inorganic, Organic and Physical Chemistry. For more general coverage of the highlights in chemistry, they remain a must. Since that time the SPR series has altered according to the fluctuating degree of activity in various fields of chemistry. Some titles have remained unchanged while others have altered their emphasis along with their titles; some have been combined under a new name whereas others have had to be discontinued. Palmer, 2019-07-23

This practical handbook features an overview of the importance of physical properties and thermodynamics and the use of thermodynamics to predict the extent of reaction in proposed new chemical combinations. The use of special types of data and prediction methods to develop flowsheets for probing projects and sources of critically evaluated data, dividing the published works into three categories depending on quality, are given. Methods of doing one's own critical evaluation of literature, a list of known North American contract experimentalists with the types of data measured by each method, for measuring equilibrium data and thermodynamic concepts to carry out process optimization are also featured. The SAE Journal, 1970 Technical Books in Print, 1966 Engineering Education, 1985
