3858 candidates sat this paper. The mean mark was 20.7 which is almost the same as the mean of 20.4 in June 2013 and slightly higher than the mean of 19.5 in June 2012.

The questions for which most candidates selected the correct answer were 1, 9, 20, 21, 24, and 27. These questions were answered correctly by 85% or more of the candidates. They covered different parts of the syllabus and were set to test different skills.

The questions for which the fewest candidates selected the correct answer were 5, and 6. These questions were answered correctly by fewer than 45% of the candidates.

There were no questions which were answered incorrectly by candidates who scored well on the test overall. (If this were to be the case then it may indicate that those who scored well on the test overall might have seen an alternative, and possible, interpretation of the question which could possibly indicate a fault in the question).

Question 5 was answered correctly by 37% of the candidates who chose option A, 4% chose option B, 53% chose option C and 5% chose option D. Option C refers to a rise in the price of an associated product not the product (cars) in the stem of the question. Any change in the demand, or supply, for an associated product would cause a shift in a curve for the product in question. Of the options given, only a fall in price of cars would cause a movement along the demand curve.
