

Digestive system, poem

Digestive system

I'm the mouth and I've got teeth
at the top, and underneath, Chop the food up nice and small,
so we can digest it all!

I am the oesophagus;
I take food in a bolus
to the stomach deep within for digestion to begin.

In the stomach there's no rest – lots of juices, they're the best at dissolving all our food so that it will do us good.

There is lots of acid here,
hydrochloric, that is clear,
kills the germs and makes enough digestive enzymes do their stuff.

Into the small intestine
where the food goes next in line.
It's a long tube, there's no doubt, several metres all stretched out.

Much digestion goes on here, enzymes come from the liver
to break down the proteins fast, carbohydrates, fats are last.

Next the colon, it's quite fat, takes the liquid out, and that means that what's left, our faeces, can come out from us with ease.

Most important in all this –
what we call peristalsis.
Squeezes food along the tract
so that digestion can act.

The anus is last to show
in our bottoms, as you know.
Out come faeces, briefly seen,
as they drop in the latrine.

Brian Hand,Lori Norton-Meier,Jeong-yoon Jang,2017-08-24 The intent of this book is to provide a rich and broad view of the impact of argument based inquiry in classrooms from the perspective of the teacher There are two important reasons for such a book The first is that we as researchers constantly work to present our views of these experiences with the voice of the teachers only being relayed through the perspective of the researcher We need as a community to listen to what the teachers are telling us The second reason is that as demands grow to provide opportunities for students to pose questions make claims and provide evidence that is to think critically and reason like scientists we need to understand what this looks like from the perspective of the teacher This book brings together a range of teachers from several countries who have used the Science Writing Heuristic SWH approach to teach argument based inquiry These teachers have all gone through professional development programs and successfully implemented the approach at a high level      Talk-Less Teaching Isabella Wallace,2014-05-15 We need other techniques on which we can draw to help pupils embed learning and make
