

Section 1: The honey bee and its honey

The honey bee, Apis mellifera

Honey bees are social insects. They live in colonies with a queen bee, worker bees, and drones. They communicate with each other using a variety of signals, including sounds, smells, and dances. They also collect nectar from flowers and use it to make honey.

Bees play a vital role in the ecosystem. They are responsible for pollinating many of the plants that we eat. Without bees, many of our food sources would disappear. They also produce honey, which is a natural sweetener. Honey is made from the nectar that bees collect from flowers. They use their long, thin proboscis to suck up the nectar and then regurgitate it into a honeycomb cell. The bees then use enzymes to break down the nectar into a simple sugar, which is then stored in the honeycomb.
