Test Equating Michael J. Kolen, Robert L. Brennan, 2013-11-11 In recent years many researchers in the psychology and statistical communities have paid increasing attention to test equating as issues of using multiple test forms have arisen and in response to criticisms of traditional testing techniques This book provides a practically oriented introduction to test equating which both discusses the most frequently used equating methodologies and covers many of the practical issues involved The main themes are the purpose of equating distinguishing between equating and related methodologies the importance of test equating to test development and quality control the differences between equating properties equating designs and equating methods equating error and the underlying statistical assumptions for equating The authors are acknowledged experts in the field and the book is based on numerous courses and seminars they have presented As a result educators psychometricians professionals in measurement statisticians and students coming to the subject for the first time as part of their graduate study will find this an invaluable text and reference AFHRL-TR. Air Force Human Resources Laboratory, 1968

Test Equating, Scaling, and Linking Michael J. Kolen, Robert L. Brennan, 2014-01-13 This book provides an introduction to test equating scaling and linking including those concepts and practical issues that are critical for developers and all other testing professionals In addition to statistical procedures successful equating scaling and linking involves many aspects of testing including procedures to develop tests to administer and score tests and to interpret scores earned on tests Test equating methods are used with many standardized tests in education and psychology to ensure that scores from multiple test forms can be used interchangeably Test scaling is the process of developing score scales that are used when scores on standardized tests are reported In test linking scores from two or more tests are related to one another Linking has received much recent attention due largely to investigations of linking similarly named tests from different test publishers or tests constructed for different purposes In recent years researchers from the education psychology and statistics communities have contributed to the rapidly growing statistical and psychometric methodologies used in test equating scaling and linking In addition to the literature covered in previous editions this new edition presents coverage of significant recent research In order to assist researchers advanced graduate students and testing professionals examples are used frequently and conceptual issues are stressed New material includes model determination in log linear smoothing in depth presentation of chained linear and equipercentile equating equating criteria test scoring and a new section on scores for mixed format tests In the third edition each chapter contains a reference list rather than having a single reference list at the end of the volume The themes of the third edition include the purposes of equating scaling and linking and their practical context data collection designs statistical methodology designing reasonable and useful equating scaling and linking studies importance of test development and quality control processes to equating equating error and the underlying statistical assumptions for equating AFHRL-TR. , 1968 HEARINGS ON NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT FOR

Weighted Airman Promotion System Michael Schiefer, 2008 Because test scores that are part of its enlisted promotion system are not standardized the U S Air Force effectively emphasizes longevity and test taking ability differently across and within specialties and this emphasis varies randomly over time The random aspects of the promotion reward system mean that the Air Force cannot be sure that it is selecting individuals with the highest potential to fill positions of increased grade and responsibility Furthermore not standardizing scores means that some specialties randomly produce higher percentages of senior non commissioned officers The authors discuss a range of outcomes that the Air Force could achieve by adopting various standardization strategies They propose a modification that would not change the policy of equal selection opportunity but would affect selection outcomes within specialties They recommend that the Air Force implement a standardization strategy that will produce predictable outcomes that are consistent with its personnel priorities and policies
