society interact and how these relationships are mediated by existing political institutions whether formal or informal The chapters in this volume highlight two broad types of informal political engagement in the Middle East civil action that works in tandem with the state apparatus and civil action that poses a challenge to the state In both cases these activities can and do achieve tangible results for particular groups of people as well as for the state For many informal politics and civil mobilisation are not a choice but a necessity to secure collectively some kind of social security through communal reciprocity and everyday activism Ironically Middle Eastern authorities often turn a blind eye to informal organising because self help schemes allow certain social groups to survive reducing their instinct to make demands of or seek support from the state People are discouraged from political action and dissent yet they are simultaneously encouraged to seek their own betterment often leading to politicised groups and associations By analysing these formations the contributors shed light on informal politics in the region
