

CYLINDER HEADMECHANICAL*6. Cylinder Head

- The cylinder head is made of aluminum casting.
- Each combustion chamber in the cylinder head is a compact, pentroof design. The spark plug is located at the center of the combustion chamber, which contributes to creation of a wide "squish area" for increased combustion efficiency.
- The two intake and two exhaust valves are arranged on opposite sides for a cross-flow feature.
- The cylinder head gasket is a metallic gasket consisting of three layers of the stainless steel sheets. The gasket is highly resistant to heat and maintains high level of sealing performance for a long period.

Mergent International Manual ,2009 CEPAL Review ,2013 Asia-Pacific Operational Framework for HIV/STI Services with Reproductive, Adolescent, Maternal, Newborn and Child Health Services ,2008 Staying Competitive in the Global Economy Compendium of Studies on Global Value Chains OECD,2008-06-11 This volume is a compilation of the studies that underlie the synthesis report on global value chains entitled Staying Competitive in the Global Economy Moving Up the Value Chain Innovation and Employment in Services Johanna Nählinger,2005-10-07 This is a study of innovation in Knowledge Intensive Business Services KIBS and the impact innovation has on employment The thesis relies on theories within the fields of innovation in services in particular KIBS and innovation and employment taking as its point of departure the taxonomy of product and process innovation The thesis is based on a discussion of innovation in services with a focus on how innovation in services may be understood and delineated A long discussion is dedicated to the taxonomy of product and process innovation and the extent to which these concepts may be applicable to innovation in services The thesis also scrutinises the concept of KIBS and how this can be defined It further discusses features commonly associated with KIBS firms The thesis is also rooted in the broader issue of innovation as a creator and destroyer of employment and makes a contribution in applying these issues to service sectors The empirical part of the thesis builds on a database compiled for the research project comprised of 967 Swedish KIBS firms. The database covers issues of innovation, employment and characteristics of the firm. The findings indicate that innovation was common in Swedish KIBS firms and that innovations often had an impact on employment. However, the thesis did not detect a straightforward relation between type of innovation, technological process innovation, organisational process innovation, goods product innovation and service product innovation and the impact on employment. Explanations other than type of innovation have to be considered to analyse the impact of innovation on employment. The thesis further suggests that although innovation in KIBS is common, innovation itself is difficult to conceptualise and delineate.

The New Service Economy Luis Rubalcaba-Bermejo, 2007

Exploring the dimensions available empirical evidence and associated policy implications this book investigates the challenges facing the global economy including employment, productivity, innovation and competitiveness. It is intended for researchers and policymakers, professionals in service firms and students in international business.

We Can Work it Out Desirée van Welsum, Xavier Reif, 2006

This paper examines the relationship between the share of employment potentially affected by offshoring and economic and structural factors including trade in business services and foreign direct investment (FDI) using simple descriptive regressions for a panel of OECD economies between 1996 and 2003. It tests whether there are differences in the factors driving the shares of potentially offshorable non-clerical and clerical occupations in total employment. The results show a positive statistical association between the share of both non-clerical and clerical occupations potentially affected by offshoring and exports of business services and a negative association with imports of business services. However, the results also show important differences between different types of occupations as they behave differently over time and are affected differently by variables included in the model. In particular, net outward manufacturing FDI, ICT investment and the relative size of the services sector all have a positive association with the share of potentially offshorable non-clerical occupations but are negative with clerical occupations. Union density has a positive statistical association with clerical occupations but negative with non clerical occupations These results have important implications for policy as they clearly suggest that different factors are driving the performance of different occupational groups
