

The diagram is a complex electrical schematic for a ship's system. It features a central horizontal busbar with numerous connection points. Above this busbar, there are several rows of circular components, likely pumps or valves, each with its own set of control wires and switches. To the left, a vertical column of components is labeled with various codes and numbers. Below the central busbar, there are more rows of circular components, some of which are labeled 'PUMP' and 'VALVE'. The bottom of the diagram shows a dense array of horizontal lines representing a large number of individual wires or cables, each connected to a specific point in the system. The overall layout is organized into distinct sections, with labels and numbers indicating the specific components and their connections.
