Paratore, Rachel L. McCormack, 2007-04-04 Showcasing assessment practices that can help teachers plan effective instruction this book addresses the real world complexities of teaching literacy in grades K 8 Leading contributors present trustworthy approaches that examine learning processes as well as learning products that yield information on how the learning environment can be improved and that are conducted in the context of authentic reading and writing activities The volume provides workable nuts and bolts ideas for incorporating assessment into instruction in all major literacy domains and with diverse learners including students in high poverty schools and those with special learning needs It is illustrated throughout with helpful concrete examples Should All Eighth Graders Take Algebra? Diane Marie Lewis, 2011 ERIC Educational Documents Index Educational Resources Information Center (U.S.), 1966 A subject author institution index which provides titles and accession numbers to the document and report literature that was announced in the monthly issues of Resources in education earlier called Research in education Administrator's Guide to Curriculum Mapping Donald F. Weinstein, 1986 Flexible Pacing for Able Learners Neil Daniel, June Cox, 1988 The monograph describes the application of flexible pacing as a means of meeting the educational needs of gifted students in schools throughout the country Flexible pacing is defined as placing students at an appropriate instructional level and allowing them to move forward in the curriculum as they master content and skills Flexible pacing is achieved by such methods as continuous progress compacted course advanced level courses grade skipping early entrance concurrent or dual enrollment and credit by examination An introductory chapter looks at the historical and theoretical context of flexible pacing and gives a brief explanation of the canvassing and survey methods used to obtain data The next two chapters describe flexible pacing programs in 8 elementary and 11 secondary schools Chapter 5 looks at district wide programs for all students or all gifted students and finds six such school systems The next chapter examines cooperative programs between schools colleges or other educational institutions The seventh chapter discusses selected features of flexible pacing including school policy strategies of implementation staff selection development and record keeping A staff development program to prepare teachers for flexible pacing in mathematics is described in the eighth chapter contributed by Kathleen Martin The concluding chapter identifies principles of implementation including capitalizing on what is available initiating a program gradually and winning support The survey form and a sample program description are appended DB California Curriculum

Newsletter, 1970 Basic Skills Curriculum McGraw-Hill, McGraw-Hill Staff, 1999 This updated series reinforces necessary skills in reading comprehension vocabulary grammar writing math applications problem solving test taking and more More than 600 pages Answer key included CD ROMs are PC and Macintosh compatible Teacher Agency in the Process of State Mandated Reform Kyle C. Ruggles, 2009 Under No Child Left Behind NCLB federally funded schools and Local Educational Agencies LEAs that do not meet Adequate Yearly Progress AYP criteria for two consecutive years are designated Program Improvement PI mandating participation in school reform interventions In February 2008 the California Department of Education CDE released a corrective action plan mandate requiring all LEAs or school districts in Year 3 of PI to participate in intensive moderate light or other levels of technical support that includes participation in the District Assistance and Intervention Team DAIT process The DAIT process brings outside consultants and district office administrators into schools and classrooms for regular walkthroughs and assessments of improvement plan implementation Yet little is known about how these state mandates influence teachers instructional practices and decision making power or agency This study explores teachers perceptions of the DAIT process and how agency is influenced in an urban fringe pre kindergarten through grade 8 PI school district in California that volunteered to pilot the DAIT process during the 2006 2009 school years The socio cultural theory of learning Gallucci 2003 and the principal agent theory Ferris 1992 guide the analysis of this embedded and longitudinal multi case study of three middle schools and the district office within the PI school district Rich thick qualitative descriptions from 24 teachers and five district office administrators engaged in state mandated reform emerge from the single case and cross case analyses Teachers perceive the DAIT feedback as vague and lacking in teacher involvement in classroom visitations which led to teachers viewing the process as superficial Yet teachers also considered the DAIT process as beneficial in increasing teacher team reflection and collaboration around a singular common instructional focus of reading comprehension which seemed to be positively associated with agency A variance of teacher agency levels was found to depend upon school context and how teachers perceived themselves while balancing the costs and benefits from DAIT feedback Findings also reveal that the DAIT process may have compromised teacher agency due to the lack of teacher participation and involvement in the development of the process potentially eroding teachers sense of professionalism
