Gaps and the Creation of Ideas Judith Seligson, 2021-03-08 Gaps and the Creation of Ideas An Artist's Book is a portrait of the space between things whether they be neurons quotations comic book frames or fragments in a collage. This twenty year project is an artist's book that juxtaposes quotations and images from hundreds of artists and writers with the author's own thoughts. Using Adobe InDesign for composition and layout the author has structured the book to show analogies among disparate texts and images. There have always been gaps but a focus on the space between things is virtually synonymous with modernity. Often characterized as a break modernity is a story of gaps. Around 1900 many independent strands of gap thought and experience interacted and interwove more intricately. Atoms, textiles, theories, women, Jews, collage, poetry, patchwork and music figure prominently in these strands. The gap is a ubiquitous phenomenon that crosses the boundaries of neuroscience, rabbinic thinking, modern literary criticism, art, popular culture and the structure of matter. This book explores many subjects but it is ultimately a work of art.

Engineering the Environment David P. D. Munns, 2017-07-19 Promising an end to global hunger and political instability, huge climate controlled laboratories known as phytotrons spread around the world to thirty countries after the Second World War. The United States built nearly a dozen, including the first at Caltech in 1949. Made possible by computers and other novel greenhouse technologies of the early Cold War, phytotrons enabled plant scientists to experiment on the environmental causes of growth and development of living organisms. Subsequently, they turned biologists into technologists who, in their pursuit of knowledge about plants, also set out to master the machines that controlled their environment. Engineering the Environment tells the forgotten story of a research program that revealed the shape of the environment, the limits of growth and development and the limits of human control over complex technological systems. As support and funding for basic science dwindled in the mid 1960s, phytotrons declined and ultimately disappeared until nearly thirty years later the British built the Ecotron to study the impact of climate change on biological communities. By revisiting this history of phytotrons, David Munns reminds us of the vital role they can play in helping researchers unravel the complexities of
