

Database Application Developer's Guide

Delphi for Windows

Chapter 1 Introduction

Agreement

Delphi enables you to create robust database applications quickly and easily. Delphi database applications can work directly with desktop databases like Paradox, dBASE, the Local InterBase Server, and ODBC data sources. The Delphi Client/Server edition also works with remote database servers such as Oracle, Sybase, Microsoft SQL Server, Informix, InterBase, and ODBC data sources. Delphi client applications can be scaled easily between mission critical network-based client/server databases, and local databases on a single machine.

This chapter introduces Delphi's database tools, including the Data Access and Data Controls component pages, the Fields Editor, the Database Desktop, and the Database Forms Expert.

What you should know first

Building a database application is similar to building any other Delphi application. This book assumes you understand the basic application development techniques covered in the Delphi User's Guide, including:

- Creating and managing projects
- Creating forms and managing units
- Working with components, properties, and events
- Writing simple Object Pascal source code

You also need to have a working knowledge of the Database Management System (DBMS) your Delphi database applications access, whether it is a desktop database such as dBASE or Paradox, or an SQL server. For information specific to building client/server applications with Delphi, see Chapter 6, "Building a client/server application."

This book assumes you have a basic understanding of relational databases, database design, and data management. There are many third-party books covering these topics if you need to learn more about them.

Manufacturing Systems Luis M. Camarinha-Matos,2006-01-04 Industries and particularly the manufacturing sector have been facing difficult challenges in a context of socio economic turbulence characterized by complexity as well as the speed of change in causal interconnections in the socio economic environment In order to respond to these challenges companies are forced to seek new technological and organizational solutions In this context two main characteristics emerge as key properties of a modern automation system agility and distribution Agility because systems need not only to be flexible in order to adjust to a number of a priori defined scenarios but rather must cope with unpredictability Distribution in the sense that automation and business processes are becoming distributed and supported by collaborative networks Emerging Solutions for Future Manufacturing Systems includes the papers selected for the BASYS 04 conference which was held in Vienna Austria in September 2004 and sponsored by the International Federation for Information Processing IFIP

Holonic and Multi-Agent Systems for Manufacturing Vladimir Marik,Robert W. Brennan,Michal Pechoucek,2005-08-29 The challenge faced in today s manufacturing and business environments is the question of how to satisfy increasingly stringent customer requirements while managing growing system complexity For example customers expect high quality customizable low cost products that can be delivered quickly The systems that deliver these expectations are by nature distributed concurrent and stochastic and as a result increasingly difficult to manage Unfortunately the traditional hierarchical strictly centralized approach to control used in these domains is characteristically inflexible fragile and difficult to maintain These shortcomings have led to the development of a new class of manufacturing and supply chain decision making approaches in recent years Solutions based on these approaches usually explore a set of highly distributed decision making units that are capable of autonomous operations while cooperating interactively to resolve larger problems The units referred to as agents in classical computer science and software engineering or holons if physically integrated with the manufacturing hardware interact by exchanging information These units are motivated by arriving at local solutions as well as collaborating and sharing resources and goals in solving the overall problem in question collectively Municipal Journal, Public Works Engineer Contractor's Guide ,1969 Advances in Instrumentation and Control ,1992 Second
