A nurse is working w/ an assistive personnel (AP) in a long-term care facility. According to the 5 rights of delegation, which of the following determinations should the nurse make prior to assigning tasks?

- A. Whether the AP has consented to the performance of delegated tasks
- B. the pt's willingness to consent to care from the AP
- C. Whether the task can be more efficiently completed by the nurse
- D. The degree of supervision that the AP will require to complete the task - CORRECT ANSWERS -
- D. The degree of supervision that the AP will require to complete the task

Rationales....

Successful delegation involves assigning the right task to the right person under the right circumstances. The person who will perform the task must be given adequate direction & specification regarding the amount of supervision that will be provided. The right communication of expectations & the right feedback about performance must also be supplied.

- A. The nurse does not have to obtain consent from the AP when delegating tasks w/in the scope of practice & job descriptions for APs
- B. Tasks that can be delegated to an AP do not require the pt's consent
- C. One of the barriers to successful delegation is the belief that no one can do a task as efficiently & effectively as the nurse. Due to the time constraints on nurses, tasks that can be done by an AP should be duly delegated

A home health nurse is caring for a pt who asks about the purpose of a living will. Which of the following statements should the nurse include in the teaching?

- A. "It est. who will make health care decisions for the pt if the pt is not about to do so"
- B. "It allows the pt to express personal wishes regarding health care decisions"
- C. "It serves as an informed consent form for any procedure prescribed by a provider"
- D. "It is only valid when a pt is lucid & able to make informed decisions independently" - CORRECT ANSWERS -
- B. It allows the pt to express personal wishes regarding health care decisions

Rationales...

A living will allows the pt to specify what aspects of care & tx are to be accepted / refused in the event that the pt can no longer communicate those decisions
