What is a probability distribution? A probability distribution is a statistical model that describes the likelihood of different outcomes in a random process. It is a function that maps each possible outcome to its probability of occurring. The most common type of probability distribution is the normal distribution, which is a bell-shaped curve that is symmetric around the mean. Other types of probability distributions include the binomial distribution, the Poisson distribution, and the exponential distribution. Each type of distribution has its own set of characteristics and is used to model different types of random processes.
