

17.3 The Process of Speciation

Lesson Objectives

-  Identify the types of isolation that can lead to the formation of new species.
-  Describe the current hypothesis about Galápagos finch speciation.

Lesson Summary

Isolating Mechanisms Speciation is the formation of new species. For one species to evolve into two new species, the gene pools of two populations must become separated, or reproductively isolated. Reproductive isolation occurs when members of two populations do not interbreed and produce fertile offspring. Reproductive isolation can develop through behavioral, geographic, or temporal isolation.

- ▶ Behavioral isolation occurs when populations have different courtship rituals or other behaviors involved in reproduction.
- ▶ Geographic isolation occurs when populations are separated by geographic barriers, such as mountains or rivers.
- ▶ Temporal isolation occurs when populations reproduce at different times.

Speciation in Darwin's Finches Peter and Rosemary Grant's work supports the hypothesis that speciation in the Galápagos finches was, and still continues to be, a result of the founder effect and natural selection.

- ▶ Speciation in Galápagos finches may have occurred in a sequence of events that involved the founding of a new population, geographic isolation, changes in the gene pool, behavioral isolation, and ecological competition.
- ▶ For example, a few finches may have flown from mainland South America to one of the islands. There, they survived and reproduced. Some birds may have crossed to a second island, and the two populations became geographically isolated. Seed sizes on the second island could have favored birds with larger beaks, so the population on the second island evolved into a population with larger beaks. Eventually, these large-beaked birds became reproductively isolated and evolved into a new species.

Isolating Mechanisms

1. What is speciation?

It is the formation of new species.

2. What does it mean for two species to be reproductively isolated from each other?

Members of the two species do not interbreed and produce fertile offspring.

3. What must happen in order for a new species to evolve?

Populations must be reproductively isolated from one another.
