

Accenta

LCD KEYPAD

The AD4E Accenta LCD Keypad can be used with any member of the AD4 Accenta range of intruder alarm control panels. Also, the new Optima and Optima Compact control panels, available from January 1998, can use this keypad.

The Accenta LCD Keypad can be programmed with a 14 character name for each zone, which will be displayed in the customer in the event of an alarm, or when reviewing the event log. The main benefit is that all zones can then have alarm events stored in the given programming memory, such as LOADING, BACKDOOR, etc, to give immediate identification of any alarm or problem. The Accenta LCD Keypad is an ideal upgrade to any existing Accenta system.

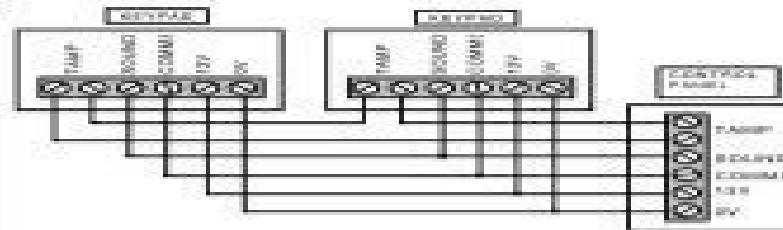

Accenta LCD Keypads can be mixed with standard Accenta LCD Keypads on the same system, up to a maximum of 8 keypads.

INSTALLATION

IMPORTANT: disconnect both mains and battery power from the control panel before commencing installation.

The keypad should normally be mounted in a convenient position on the entry/exit route. Fit the keypad in place by following these steps:

1. Loosen the retaining screws on the lower edge of the keypad housing, and separate the front and rear parts.
2. Choose the cable entry point. A hole in the back of the housing permits the rear entry of concealed wiring. Four knock-outs around the edge of the rear cover permit cable entry from any side via mini-thrilling. The knock-outs can be removed by removing with a screw driver.
3. Cut the rear housing up to the wall, and mark out the 3 screw positions. Use the top key-hole slot, and the lower 2 holes.
4. Drill and plug the wall as necessary, then fit the rear housing to a wall using three No. 6 wood screws.
5. Run a 6 core alarm cable from the control panel to the keypad. The keypad connection terminals can be found on the PCB which is fitted in the front part of the housing.
6. If a single keypad is to be fitted to the control panel then simply connect each of the 6 terminals on the keypad to the same terminal on the panel, i.e. 13V connects to 13V, COMMS to COMMS, etc.
7. If 2 or more keypads are to be connected to a single control panel, then 13V, GND, COMMS and SQUAD terminals of all keypads should be wired in parallel, but the tamper circuit must be wired in series, as shown below:

8. Test the operation of the keypad by connecting the battery power to the control panel. The red POWER LED will light, and the LCD should show "Accenta LCD Keypad". Since the control panel should power up into an alarm condition, the keypad will generate the alarm sound. To silence the alarm, key in the customer code and press PRESET.
9. The LCD should now display:
10. The potentiometer on the back of the PCB, labelled "LCD TILT", should be adjusted to give the optimum contrast from the expected viewing angle.
11. Fit the front to rear housing, and tighten the retaining screws.
12. Installation is complete. You should now program the keypad.

PROGRAMMING

The keypad has a non-volatile programming mode that allows you to change any of the data held by the keypad in its non-volatile memory. Note that this programming mode is completely separate from the engineer programming of the control panel, and may use a different engineer access code.

Programming Mode

To enter programming mode, press and hold down the PRESET button for 5 seconds. The LCD will prompt for the Engineer code. By default this is 0000, although it can be changed. Enter the engineer code.

REVIEW: Zone 1: 0000

If the correct code has been entered the LCD will display the first menu option, "Change Zone Names?". To see the other menu options, press COMIT to step forward through the menus, or CHIME to step backwards. The flowchart overleaf shows the entire menu structure.

The buttons on the keypad are generally used as follows:

SET	do this
RESET	quit this menu without changing anything
COMIT	move forwards through the menu options
CHIME	move backwards through the menu options
PRESET	used in text entry to change upper to lower case

Note that if the keypad is left in programming mode for more than 4 minutes it will time-out and revert back to normal mode.

Zone Names

The keypad uses a non-volatile memory to store a 14 character description for each of each of the zones. By default these descriptions are simply "Zone 1", "Zone 2", etc.

The zone descriptions can be changed from the first menu. Press SET and the LCD will display the name of zone 1. To see other zone names press COMIT or CHIME. To quit from this mode press PRESET. To change the name of a zone press SET.

Initially the cursor will be positioned at the right of the existing name. Press the COMIT key to delete single characters, or hold down the COMIT key for 2 seconds to delete the entire name.

Enter the new zone name using the keypad keys in the same way that names are entered into a mobile phone. Above each number key are 3 or 4 letters. When you press the number key once the first letter above the key will be displayed. Press it twice to get the 2nd
