

Accounting 1 Chapter 4

True/False

Indicate whether the statement is true or false.

1. Account numbers may be assigned by 10s so that new accounts can be added easily.
2. The procedure of arranging accounts in a general ledger, assigning account numbers, and keeping records current is posting.
3. If a new account is located between accounts numbered 210 and 220, the new account number should be 215.
4. The account number is placed in the Post. Ref. column of the journal as the last step in the posting procedure.
5. If the previous account balance and the current entry posted to an account are both debits, the new account balance is a debit.
6. The column total of the General Debit column is posted.
7. The total of the General Credit column is not posted.
8. A check mark in parentheses placed below the General Debit column total indicates that posting of the column total is completed.
9. The total of the Cash Debit column is not posted.
10. The total of the Sales Credit column is posted.
11. A ledger is a group of accounts.
12. A ledger that contains all accounts needed to prepare financial statements is a general ledger.
13. Opening an account refers to the procedure of writing an account title and number on the heading of an account.
14. When adding a new expense account between accounts numbered 510 and 520, the new account is assigned the account number 515.
15. Separate amounts in special amount columns are posted individually.
16. Separate amounts in general amount columns are posted individually.
17. The posting reference should always be recorded in the journal's Post. Ref. column before amounts are recorded in the ledger.
18. The only reason for the Post. Ref. columns of the journal and general ledger is to indicate which entries in the journal still need to be posted if posting is interrupted.
19. A check mark in parentheses below a General Debit column total indicates that the total is not posted.
20. With the exception of the totals lines, the Post. Ref. Column is completely filled in with either an account number or a check mark.

Creating a Business Jenny van Sten-van't Hoff, 2019-11-20. There is more to setting up a successful business than just a good idea. Creating a Business examines concisely all the relevant aspects: the excitement and satisfaction that business entails, the challenges that face the entrepreneur, the risks that lie in wait. The textbook is organized around a practical example: a company setting out to launch a new line of clothing. Aspects of setting up a business, including management, marketing, legislation, and financial management, are examined. Including pedagogical features such as end of chapter questions and illustrations, Creating a Business will interest students of small business and entrepreneurship.
