Enabling Health and Healthcare Through ICT Karen L. Courtney, Omid Shabestari, Alex Mu-Hsing Kuo, 2013 For many people in both developing and developed countries universal healthcare is still not the norm. Socio economic status and geographical restrictions have proved to be major barriers to accessible care. The use of information and communication technologies ICT is growing rapidly internationally as the need to provide more efficient and cost effective care becomes increasingly urgent. Improving the health of a nation begins with the individual and recent developments in genomics and mobile networked information technologies have regenerated interest in individualizing healthcare. Harnessing the diversity and ubiquity of available ICT may be one of the keys to enabling more accessible healthcare across both geographic and socio economic divides. This book presents the proceedings of the 2013 Information Technology and Communication in Health ITCH 2013 conference. This conference entitled Available Tailored and Closer was held in Victoria BC Canada in February 2013. The theme of the ITCH 2013 conference was realizing the enabling potential of information and communications technology worldwide. Papers in this book are arranged according to subject. Sections include electronic health records, telecare, telemedicine and telaboratory, public health informatics, clinical decision support systems, human computer interaction, patient safety and healthcare modeling among others.
