Charging your battery pack

If you wish to use the battery power, ensure to fully charge your battery pack before going on long trips. Remember that the power adapter charges the battery pack as long as it is plugged to an AC power source. It takes much longer to charge the battery pack when your device is in use.

Airplane precautions

Ask an airline personnel if you want to use your device onboard the aircraft. Most airlines have restrictions in using electronic devices, and allow its use only when the plane reaches its cruising altitude.

There are three types of airport security devices: X-ray scanner (for luggages placed on conveyor belts), metal detectors (a walk-through security checking device), and magnetic wands (hand-held devices for checking on passengers). You can send your device through the X-ray scanner, but do not send your device through the metal detectors or checked by magnetic wands.
