Note: Question No. (i) about summary writing is compulsory carrying 06 marks while rest of the questions carry 03 marks each.

In China the lunar calendar is still used to determine traditional holidays like Chinese New Year. Since the lunar calendar is based on the phases of the moon— which has a shorter cycle than the sun — Chines New Year is never on the same day each year, but typically falls somewhere between January 21st and February 20th. Celebrations can actually last up to a month.

Here are some traditions associated with the Chinese New Year. Prior to the first day of the New Year it is customary for families to thoroughly clean their houses. Doing this is said to clear out any bad luck from the previous year and to make the house ready to accept good luck for the coming year. All cleaning must be finished before the New Year's Day so there is no chance of accidentally throwing out the good fortune of the New Year. Wearing black is not allowed due to its association with death, however, wearing red is encouraged as the colour is associated with warding off bad spirits.

Another popular custom is to hang up signs and posters on doors and windows with the Chinese word fu written on them, which means luck and happiness. Buying flower for the home is also common since they symbolize the coming of spring and a new beginning.

On the eve of the Chinese New Year it is customary to visit relatives and partake in a large dinner where a number of specific foods are served. It is typical for a Chinese family to make eight to nine dishes for the New Year's eve Dinner because in Chinese language the word "eight" means "prosperity" and the word "nine" means "long lasting".

Questions:

- Summarize the given passage. Also suggest a suitable title to it. (Compulsory)
- Why is Chinese New Year never on the same day each year?
- What is the Chinese belief about cleaning houses before the new year day?
- What is the Chinese myth associated with black and red colours to wear on New year?
- What is the symbolic significance of word "fu"?
- Why does New Year's Eve dinner consist of eight or nine dishes?
- Give the Synonyms of the words that are underlined in the passage. (Any three)

Q. 3 A. Paraphrase any ONE of the following stanzas: (02)

I. If you find your task is hard.
Try again;
Time will bring you your reward.
Try again;
All that other folks can do.
Why with patience should not you?
Only keep this rule in view.
Try again.

OR

I hear rich leaves on top
Giving the poor beneath
Drop after drop;
'Tis a sweet noise to hear.

B. Read the following poem/stanza carefully and answer the questions appended to it:

I. The wind is now a roaring, smashing
Monster of destruction, raking all man's work
From the valleys, from the vales,
And sends them spinning, broken flying

Moffat,1997 The past two decades have seen an outpouring of work in legal theory that is self consciously critical of aspects of American law and the institutions of the liberal state In this lively volume eminent scholars in philosophy law and political science respond to this recent scholarship by exploring what constitutes a radical critique of the law examining such theories as critical legal studies feminist theory and theories of difference and critical race theory The authors consider whether the critiques advanced in recent legal theory can truly be called radical and what form a radical critique of American law should take Writing at the cutting edge of the critique of critical legal theory they offer insights first on critical legal scholarship then on feminist political and legal theory A third group of contributions questions the radicalness of these approaches in light of their failure to challenge fundamental aspects of liberalism while a final section focuses on current issues of legal reform through critical views on criminal punishment including observations on rape and hate speech Each major essay describes the underlying principles in the development of a radical legal theory and addresses unresolved questions relating to it while accompanying commentaries present conflicting views The resulting dialogue explores wide ranging issues like equity value relativism adversarial and empathic legal advocacy communitarianism and the social contract impartiality and contingency natural law and corrective justice A common thread for many of the articles is a focus on the social dimension of society and law which finds the individualism of prevailing liberal theories too limiting Radical Critiques of the Law is particularly unique in presenting critical and feminist approaches in one volume along with skeptical commentary about just how radical some critiques really are Proposing alternative critiques that embody considerably greater promise of being truly radical it offers provocative reading for both philosophers and legal scholars by showing that many claims to radicalism are highly problematic at best Research Results Digest ,2002 African Books in Print ,1978 Mathematical Reviews ,1998
