HOW TO USE YOUR SCHOLASTIC READER

Choosing and adapting

Is this a good story for your class? Do they enjoy drama, reading, discussion? If not, choose a different book. Motivate the students by giving them some biographical information on the story. Then read the plotline with plenty of dramatic expression.

Organizing

Motivate a reading schedule for the class. Decide how many pages to read per reading session. Then divide the students into three groups. They select sections from the book they like best. Check the book at the book and make sure there is a balance between the three groups of reading. (Answers on page 5.)

Using the CD

The class can listen and follow the three books, listen and then read, or read the books. All three activities will engage the reading groups and pupils.

Using the DVD and CD

Watch the English language option on the DVD. Decide the three best options for each, that all students and language are suitable for your class. If you like some of the others will be more appropriate for your students, with their scores. Watch the film in English with your reading activities, choose appropriate scenes with our language books related to them. Alternatively, other than film with other class, have students reading the book, as a team.

Class activity

On the "StoryWorld" at the back of the book, translate the words with the class or get students to read them themselves. Then vocabulary lists can provide a lot of new words in different contexts that may not be in different contexts.

Group exercises

Some exercises like "Self-Study Activities" at the back of the book. These are designed for students. They complete another student between reading a section of the book, and answer other. Check the answers with the whole class.

Fact File

Set these up individually or with the whole class. They provide information on reading the story, characters, setting, and people who have been successful in their life.

What did they think?

Get students to do a writing or spoken review of the book. Use any writing or talk about writing the book. Review and discuss.

Competitions and updates

Check www.scholastic.com/parents/ for competitions and other activities related to the "StoryWorld".
