Description

The high speed NAVIGAT X Mk 1 is a microprocessor controlled gyrocompass system with integrated automatic north speed error correction.

The unique method of supporting the gyrosphere by means of mere buoyancy ensures north stabilization during short power interruptions. No more than 2° error may be expected after a loss of power for 3 minutes and once the power is restored, the correct heading will be achieved without the normal settling period. This combined with twin rotors virtually eliminates error in latitude.

The gyrocompass provides 12 independent serial data outputs to analogue or digital repeaters.

Integrated monitoring and alarm functions for the power supply, gyroscope temperature and current and the follow-up system ensure secure and trouble-free system operation.

The single unit design with low-weight hard polyurethane foam housing allows the gyrocompass to be installed on any bridge.

An optional switch-over unit for twin gyrocompasses provides for complete redundancy of all input and output signals and thus ensures the independence of the individual compasses.

This book offers fascinating insights into the key technical and scientific developments in the history of radar from the first patent taken out by H. Ismeyer in 1904 through to the present day. Landmark events are highlighted and fascinating insights provided into the exceptional people who made possible the progress in the field including the scientists and technologists who worked independently and under strict secrecy in various countries across the world in the 1930s and the big businessmen who played an important role after World War II. The book encourages multiple levels of reading. The author is a leading radar researcher who is ideally placed to offer a technical scientific perspective as well as a historical one. He has taken care to structure and write the book in such a way as to appeal to both non specialists and experts. The book is not sponsored by any company or body either formally or informally and is therefore entirely unbiased.
