Population ecology is the study of populations in relation to environment, including environmental influences on density and distribution, age structure, and population size.

A population is a group of individuals of a single species living in the same general area. Natality and immigration increases it while mortality and emigration decreases it.

Density is the number of individuals per unit area or volume.

Dispersion is the pattern of spacing among individuals within the boundaries of the population. They can be uniform, clumped, or random.

Demography is the study of the vital statistics of a population and how they change over time. Its primary factors are the birth rate and death rate.

A life table is an age-specific summary of the survival pattern of a population. It is best made by following the fate of a cohort.

Survivorship curves plot the proportion of individuals alive at each age. There are 3 types of survivorship curves:

- Type I: low death rates during early and middle life, then an increase in death rates among older age groups
- Type II: the death rate is constant over the organism's life span
- Type III: high death rates for the young, then a slower death rate for survivors

Study Guide and Workbook, an Interactive Approach for Starr and McMillan's Human Biology, Third Edition

Jane B. Taylor, John D. Jackson, 1999 Asks the student to write all answers in this study guide workbook. This workbook is interactive because it requires students to do things instead of just reading more material. All questions are arranged by chapter modules so students may skip unassigned material. Each module in the study guide refers to the page numbers of the corresponding module in the text. There is a wide variety of questions: multiple choice questions, tables to be filled in, art to be labeled, true/false questions requiring students to write the correct answer if the statement is false, thought provoking conceptual questions, boldfaced terms requiring a written definition, list of objectives in fill-in-the-blank format, and other types of questions.
