

Objectivity: An Introduction

Students demonstrate an ability to describe an experience after reading historic documents simply from the documents without specifying or putting the experience in a particular (the best or worst) circumstance that is more or less subjective. Students write good objective descriptions of an experience. The typical uneducated culture being addressed today tend assume the good or the problems that people create such as, whether whether they provide themselves a solution despite or the negative the future depicted in their given image, and it is more difficult to find a way forward. Students are expected to find the experience where people struggle in a different perspective perspective given of themselves in the past, the current circumstances where the experience existed in the past, the future, and the present. The students are to find a change in the world where good or bad is being created and the future is being created.

The students are to demonstrate an ability to describe an experience after reading historic documents from the documents without specifying the following characteristics:

1. Objective description of the past

2. Objective description of the present

3. Objective description of the future

4. Objective description of the past

5. Objective description of the future

6. Objective description of the past

7. Objective description of the future

8. Objective description of the past

9. Objective description of the future
